A Chicago woman publisher has offered a reward of $1,000 to any Chicago man who will prove that he is strictly honest and has carried on his business for one month without lying. A safe proposition to make in that town.

THE CRIMINAL COURT

The Session Almost Entirely Consumed Yesterday in the Hearing of One Case.

WORK OF THE GRAND JURY.

The Term Will Certainly Extend Over Into Next Week—Only Half Day's Work Saturday—A Matter of Perjury to be Heard.

Practically the entire day in the Criminal Court was taken up yesterday in the trial of L. Herring, a white man of Wilmington, charged with the larceny of a turpentine distillery worm belonging to Mr. C. H. Dock, who has a place across the river opposite Market street. The case was begun at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and the jury at 6:30 o'clock yesterday evening took the case and after remaining out a few minutes brought in a verdict of not guilty. The defendant, through his attorneys, Herbert McClammy and Brooke G. Empie, Esqs., succeeded in establishing an alibi and the defendant was discharged. The case was vigorously prosecuted by Solicitor Duffy and William J. Bellamy, Esq., and in all, about three hours was consumed in argument to the jury.

The still worm is alleged to have been stolen on the night of May 31st. A few days afterwards, it was found at the lampblack factory of Mr. Dock several hundred yards down the river and the prosecuting attorneys based their case upon an alleged confession by Herring to a man named Wm. Johnson, who was working for Detective Geo. W. Millis. The apparatus weighs about a thousand pounds and is valued at $200.

John Stewart, the negro who attempted to break into a shanty car of the A. C. L. a few days ago, was tried upon the opening of court and found guilty in two cases for larceny. Judgment was, however, reserved.

Beyond these cases there was little else before the court during the day and an adjournment was had at 6:30 o'clock until 9 o'clock this morning. Only a half day's session will be held and an adjournment taken until Monday morning.

It will likely require most of next week to clear the docket. One of the important cases to be tried before the term ends is that of the negro who killed another in Brooklyn several weeks ago. A true bill has not yet been returned in the case owing to a necessary delay in procuring witnesses. Practically all the remaining work of the grand jury is finished, with the exception of a number of cases that came over yesterday from the lower courts. A committee consisting of Messrs. H. J. Bierman, T. J. Pratt, H. K. Holden and W. H. M. Koch, members of the grand jury, yesterday visited the County Home and convict camp and the entire jury took a peep into the jail on the day before.

True bills for larceny were returned against Fred C. Williams, Jno. Williams and Henry Zellers, for larceny, and Jackson Browning, for perjury, in a case against himself at the opening of court for assault and battery with a deadly weapon.

Judge Bryan yesterday sentenced King Bell, who was convicted earlier in the term of assault and battery with a deadly weapon, to six months on the roads and suspended judgment in another case against him for carrying concealed weapons.

The following talesmen were summoned for duty to day: Samuel Blossom, D. S. Bender, Andrew Smith, S. D. Gurganus, Eben Horton, R. A. Benson, Geo. Grotgen, J. B. Warren, V. Hall, J. M. Forshee, J. A. Craig, R. H. Grant, W. F. Roberts, Charles Sumlin, J. W. Strickland, A. F. Davis, James Berg, J. F. Staniand, H. O. Craig, Jno. J. Kuhlken, Morris Levy, H. A. Fortmann, C. H. Farrow, J. H. Mintz.

The company has purchased the well known Southerland farm to the east of the city and embracing about 185 acres of the most fertile land in this section. Here they will conduct an up-to date stock farm, and will put the old Southerland race track in prime condition for the sport that was once very popular in Wilmington.

Allen's complete collapse in the seventh inning yesterday and an error upon the part of the management in not retiring him from the slab until, exhausted he left the box in the ninth, kept the Giauts from winning from Norfolk in a game that was slow and unsatisfactory to the base ball public of Wilmington. The Giants won the game a dozen times but lost it as many more. The score was 14 to 13 and it needs only to be said that Norfolk sent eight men and Wilmington five across the plate in the ninth, in order to gather some faint idea of the class of ball played by both sides.

With the exception of a brilliant catch in left by Sebring and a pretty stop by Warren on third by which he retired a base runner, there were no features for the locals. For the Skippers, the fielding in both the right and left positions of the garden was good.

The visitors came up and went out in their order from the infield with the exception of a hit to left by Kemmer, which was muffed by Sebring. For the Giants Clayton walked, got second on a passed ball and scored on a sacrifice by Crockett and a single by Stafford. A double of Sebring's hit to second retired the side with one man across the rubber. It was one, two, three order for both teams in the next inning, Slagle, Warren and Thackara having fanned. In the third Lehman crossed the plate for the "Mary Janers" on a single and sacrifices by Mullen and Smith, Dannehower having drawn four balls in the meantime and scored later on Kemmer's single. Daly got first on Warren's error but did not advance, Spratt having gone out from second. The score was two to one against the Giants, when they came up and sent McGinnis across the plate on a single by himself, a sacrifice by Allen and a safe hit by Clayton; "Davy" Crockett fanned; Stafford walked; Sebring hits safe to short and Stafford allows himself to get caught between second and third so that Clayton scored.

The visitors got a little the better of the fourth but neither team scored, the locals having gone out on fans by Devlin and Warren and an infield by Thackara.

The fifth netted Wilmington a run after Norfolk went out from the infield with the exception of Big Bill Kemmer, who hit double as usual. With McGinnis out at centre and Allen down on "Danny's" curves, Clayton got first on McDade's error and scored on Crockett's beautiful two base hit to right. Stafford flew out to left.

The Skippers got one run in their half of the sixth. McDade had fanned and Slagle hit a triple and scored on Lehman's sacrifice; Dannehower went out to first. The Giants went out in their order with Sebring, Devlin and Warren up and the visitors got a lead of one run in their half of the next on Allen's sign of collapse. Mullen flew out to centre and Smith caught a quick delivery for three bags and Kemmer came up and got second on an error of McGinnis in deep centre. Smith scored and Big Bill also crossed the rubber on Daly's two bagger, which he tried to make a triplet and was thrown out; Spratt flew out on a beautiful catch by Sebring in deep left. The Giants came back at 'em and tied the score on Thackara's two bagger, a sacrifice by McGinnis and a single by Clayton, Allen having fanned in the meantime. Crockett flew out to left. In their half of the eighth the Skippers got a lead of one run, after McDade and Slagle were retired; Lehman was hit; Dannehower, Mullen and Smith each drew four balls, forcing Lehman home; Kemmer forced Mullen at third. The Giants came up and by sending three men across the plate got a lead of two runs that should have won the game. Stafford led off for three bags to deep centre; Sebring fanned; Devlin was hit and stole second; Slagle dropped Warren's fly to centre and Stafford scored, Devlin going to third and Warren to second; Thackara fanned; McGinnis singled over third, scoring Devlin and Warren; Allen got a pass and Clayton fanned.

Everybody thought the game was Wilmington's when the Skippers came up in the ninth but they performed the remarkable feat of scoring eight men and winning the contest. Daly led off with a single and Spratt and McDade are hit by a pitched ball. With the bases full Allen made a personal request of Stewart to finish the game for him which he did without having had time to warm up and after a game pitched the day before. Slagle drew four balls forcing Daly home and Spratt scored on Lehman's single. Dannehower came up and swatted the ball for two bases, scoring Spratt, McDade and Slagle; Mullen got first on Crockett's error and "Danny" crossed home plate; Smith singled; Kemmer walked and Daly hit out to short, allowing Mullen to score; Spratt drew a free pass and McDade forced Kemmer at third, while Smith scored; Spratt was caught off second and the side retired.

The Giants came up and six runs would have tied the score, and with Dannehower away up in the air they almost got them, but not quite. "Davy" Crockett singled and Stafford hit for two bags; Sebring popped out to first and Devlin got a pass; Crockett scored on Warren's single and Stafford on Thackara's caught fly to centre; two men were down and McGinnis scored Devlin on a single; Stewart was hit, and Warren crossed the rubber on Clayton's single. Two men were on bases and "Davy" Crockett at bat, and with but one more run to tie the score and make another inning certain, the rooters began to pray to their base ball gods, but the best that "Davy" could do was to force Clayton at second, and the game was lost—14 to 13. They made a hard fight, but lost.

Beaten, But Not Dismayed.

— "So near, and yet so far."

— Poor Ashenback is on the rack.

— Vorhees will show Morrisey a thing or two this afternoon.

— Hurrah for the Red Birds—this week. Next week—well, that's another story.

— Wanted, a team to beat Norfolk this afternoon. Report at Hilton Park at 4:00 o'clock.

— Dear Red Birds: We owe you another. Draw at sight for two out of the six next week.

— Any way, we'll make it two out of three, and that is all the horse editor has claimed or expected.

— And Dannehower, too, the champion pitcher of Norfolk, seemed to lose his grip in the ninth inning.

— The horse editor pleads guilty to a feeling of weariness over yesterday's game. He is a sort of "Weary William."

— Newport News-Herald: "One nice thing may be said of Wilmington—the Giants know how to take defeat gracefully."

— Allen lost the game for Wilmington. To the surprise of his friends—and he has many—he broke all to pieces in the eighth and in that part of the ninth that he played.

— Had we won yesterday's game, the Giants would have had a good safe lead on top of the percentage column again. But we didn't.

— Some thought Allen lost control of himself, while those who know him best think he lost control of the ball. This sometimes occurs with the best pitchers.

— There's no use in criticizing Allen harshly. As a rule, he is one of the coolest, headiest players in the league; and when he is in the box he not only pitches a good game, but he plays well outside the box.

—The game this afternoon will be called promptly at 4 o'clock in order that it may be completed in time for the visitors to get off on this evening's train for home, where they will spend Sunday and go up to Richmond Monday.

AN I. O. O. F. BUILDING

The Four Wilmington Lodges Are Preparing to Erect Handsome Quarters.

PERHAPS ON FRONT STREET.

A Committee Has Been Named by Each Branch of the Order and They Will Meet Tuesday Night to Talk Over the Matter.

Enthusiasm and progressiveness is the spirit which pervades the atmosphere of the four local lodges of Odd Fellows in Wilmington, which include in their membership something like a thousand of the best citizens residing here.

The latest mark of progressiveness on the part of the Wilmington lodges is a movement to erect at no distant date a handsome Odd Fellow building in the city, one that will be a credit to the community at large and the order in particular. To this end, each of the four lodges of the city have recently appointed committees to look into the matter of building and to consult among themselves as to the best plans to be adopted. The committee from each lodge numbers five members, and there will be a meeting of all of these on next Tuesday night, at which the matter is expected to assume some tangible shape.

While, of course, nothing definite has been announced yet, it is learned that if the building is constructed it will most probably be on a Front street location and will be similar in character to the handsome buildings erected by the Masons and Elks along this popular thoroughfare in Wilmington during the past two years.

Services Growing in Interest.

The meetings at the Southside Baptist church have grown in interest during the week. Large congregations are attending all the services and there was especial interest manifested at the service last night. Rev. Mr. Haymore is a young preacher of unusual earnestness and speaks with much force and power. There will be no day service this afternoon but preaching to night as usual. The funeral will be held this morning from the late residence in Laurence.

— Mr. N. P. Cannon, of Charlotte, was here yesterday.

THE BOND ISSUE ELECTION.

Registration Will Not Close Until Sunset To-day—A Closer Scrutiny of the Law Reveals That Fact.

The registration for the bond issue election next Tuesday week did not close yesterday as was announced, but will continue until sunset to-day. The reason for a continuance of one day longer is that a closer scrutiny of the act under which the election is to be held disclosed the fact that Section 18 directs that the books shall be "closed for registration at sunset on the second Saturday before each election" and the registrars have been instructed under a ruling by County Attorney W. B. McKoy to remain at their posts one day longer, although the official advertisement of the period of registration stated that it would close yesterday.

That part of the act under which Mr. McKoy gives this opinion, which appears to be absolutely correct, is as follows:

"That the registrars of each township, ward or precinct shall be furnished with a registration book prepared as hereinbefore provided, and it shall be his duty, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and sunset on each day (Sunday excepted) for twenty days preceding the day for closing the registration books as hereinafter provided, to keep open said books for the registration of electors. * * * That the said books shall be closed for registration at sunset on the second Saturday before each election."

THE TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY.

Visitors Are Expected to Begin Arriving To-day and To-morrow—President Holt's Happy Greeting.

Visitors for the Teachers' Assembly, which will be held five days next week at Wrightsville Beach, are expected to begin arriving in the city to day and to-morrow and by Monday and Tuesday it is expected that the city and beach will be filled with people who are to be our guests on this occasion.

A correspondent of the News and Observer writing to that paper yesterday from Oak Ridge, says:

"Prof. J. A. Holt, president of the Teachers' Assembly, has letters from nearly all the leading speakers for the assembly next week, saying they will be present on the day and at the hour appointed, so that it is likely that every part of the programme will be punctually carried out, and indications point to a very large attendance. This year the programme is a remarkably strong one, and the subjects chosen for addresses by the various speakers are likely to prove interesting. Every teacher who can do so should be present.

"The manager of the Seashore Hotel has information that a warm ocean wave, just right for bathing, will reach Wrightsville about the 10th of June, and also has a contract with two sea serpents, which are on their way to Atlantic City and Coney Island to stop over one day next week and give an exhibition out in front of the Seashore Hotel."

SEASHORE HOTEL OPENING.

It Will Take Place To-night and Will be An Enjoyable Affair.

The Seashore Hotel, uner the management of that clever and capable gentleman, Mr. Joe H Hinton, will observe its formal opening for the season to night in a seaside frolic that promises to eclipse in brilliancy all its distinguished predecessors in former years.

Manager Hinton has exerted himself to make of the opening this year a memorable event and with about forty guests already at his popular resort and the numbers of young people that will go down on special trains from the city, there is every reason to believe that the function will be up to the full measure of his every expectation.

Prof. Hollowbush's orchestra of seven pieces, which has been engaged for the Summer, arrived yesterday and will furnish music for the dance, which will be given in the elegant new hall in the building. As usual there will be a late train and visitors from the city will find it very convenient to attend.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 8.

CARPETBAGGERS IN THE "APPURTENANCES."

A Manila dispatch published several days ago stated that there was much murmuring about the discrimination against natives in the appointment of judges, the murmurings going even to the extent of threatening another revolution if the discrimination did not cease. The Philippines as well as Porto Rico are, according to the recent decision of the Supreme Court, "appurtenances," but not a part of the United States.

This decision, which was elicited by a question of customs duties and the right to collect duties on goods imported from Porto Rico, was more far-reaching than was anticipated and settled the hash for some of the territory that wasn't in question at all, for acting on the cue given out by Justice White, the expansionists will insist on treating all these new acquisitions as "appurtenances," and keeping them in the condition of "appurtenances." Porto Rico, the Philippines, the Caroline islands, the Sulu group, Hawaii and the Danish West Indies, (if we buy them) will all find themselves in the category of "appurtenances," to be governed by the Congress of the United States according to its own sweet will, without any restriction of law further than it may deign to keep within what it may consider the spirit of the constitution. The natural result of this will be carpetbag governments for those "appurtenances," and they won't like that a bit better than the governments they kicked against and some of them not so well.

The murmuring reported from Manila was done by the natives, but Hawaii is in it, too, and there there is a hot war on between the original stock of carpetbaggers and the later imports, which must be interesting to the unsophisticated natives who don't know much about such things. Each of the factions has an organ and the organs are firing away and going for the other side without measuring the American vernacular. The organ of the original carpetbagger declares that the new issue of imports is a sort of horseleach who goes to the islands to suck all he can out of the people without giving them anything in return but flattery and humbuggery. In the language of the distinguished carpetbagger of Texas, Mr. Flannagan, they ask themselves the question "what in h—ll are we here for" and proceed accordingly to demonstrate what they are there for.

The organ of the latest issue of carpetbaggers, which flies the roaring and caloric name of Volcano declares that the new issue are no more carpetbaggers than the old issue were who are railing and kicking because they can't monopolize all the soft snaps in the islands and lord it over the docile natives. It is a question of spoils with both and as far as outsiders are concerned it dosen't matter which is on top and perhaps it dosen't matter to the native either, for he would, in all probability, be bled by either, the only difference being that the old issue may stick, be permanent, and their plunder remain in the islands while the new issue being birds prey and passage will linger while it pays and then migrate with the plunder, as most of them did in the reconstruction carpetbag era in the South.

The case of Hawaii is peculiar and somewhat different from that of the other "appurtenances." The original stock of American adventurers, with the aid and comfort and moral encouragement of the Republican administration at Washington, snatched the ebony queen from her throne and sent her into retirement on her farm outside of Honolulu and established a so-called "Republic," whose government was some time after recognized by the administration at Washington. While it was run as a Republic by the little oligarchy of Americans, they had the game and the spoils all in their own hands, but for some reason they concluded they wanted to be annexed, and they called a convention, formed a constitution eliminating the bulk of the natives from participation in the government and were annexed, by virtue of which annexation the islands became "appurtenances" of the United States, not to be ruled by the oligarchy but by new comers who drifted thither after annexation. That's where the bother comes in to the fellows who overthrew the "monarchy" and established the "republic." Then they had everything in their own hands, but now they have a new element to cope with, several times more assertive and pugnacious than the brown natives, who don't take much stock in political scrimmaging since the sable queen has been retired from business.

The Dole adherents who did the revolution act took the unsuspecting queen by surprise and ejected her without the formality of sending a constable with papers, miscalculated, for they favored and worked for annexation on the assumption that Hawaii would be organized into a Territory, with a big T, and in due time be admitted as a State, when there would be a couple Senatorships for some of the patriots, and some other fat jobs. They had no idea that they would become a mere "appurtenance," and remain in that condition indefinitely, unless the native race should peg out or emigrate and the vacated places be taken by Americans and other Anglo Saxons, who, according to the ideas of the expansionist, supported by the dictum of Justice White, may be competent for the task of self-government according to Anglo Saxon principles.

This is rough on the schemers who established the Republic of Hawaii to now find their Republic a mere appurtenance of the United States, and their grip on the spoils contested by new coming carpet baggers, but it is also rough on all the "appurtenances," for c. b. government isn't good any way you take it.

A FOOL IN BLACK

There is a negro paper in Mobile, Alabama, owned and published by two preachers, which doesn't like the appeal made by Booker T. Washington to the Constitutional Convention. The Mobile paper doesn't think there ought to be any appeals in behalf of the negroes, but that they should insist on their "rights" and ask no favors. If the negroes are "treated right" it says they will help to make the South bloom and prosper and if they are not they will do something else. Here is the way it serves notice:

"If treated wrong, he will seek what opportunity he can to weaken it so that he can destroy this system of semi-barbaric slavery. The country cannot live in peace and happiness with one law for one class and another for another class. The negro is not now satisfied and the race only submits because it is powerless to help itself. The negro submits now, but that submission is by force and with discontent, a cancerous sore, which will come to the surface in an eruption in a few years."

Just what it means by "treated wrong" we do not know, but we suppose it means that the privilege of the negro to vote should not be restricted, that the way to the ballot box should be as open to him as to the white man, that he ought to have an equal showing at the official plum tree, etc., etc. Anything less than this would doubtless, in the estimation of that paper, be "treating the negro wrong."

But if the negroes of Alabama should take these two clerical editors as guides in preference to such counsellors as Booker T. Washington and other negroes who follow in his line they would hurt themselves much more than they would the white men of their State, who attach no importance whatever to such vaporing as this Mobile paper indulges in. There has been talk of that kind in all the States where restricted suffrage has been discussed, but even the negroes in the States where it has been adopted have realized the fact that it has been a benefit to them and that they are better off since than they were before suffrage was restricted.

INDIAN COTTON.

A statement was published some time ago to the effect that the cotton manufacturers in Japan were importing largely of India cotton as a substitute for the American cotton which they had been buying. They mix this India cotton with American cotton, which helps it and gives it a better standing in the market, but at the same time the India cotton enables the manufacturer to put the goods on the market somewhat cheaper than if he worked all American cotton. The fact that Russian mills are now getting most of their cotton from Southern Siberia, and the Japanese importing largely from India makes the situation interesting to both the Southern mill man and cotton grower, and the prospective capacity of both of these fields, also a matter of interest.

The industry is still too young in Southern Siberia to furnish basis to calculate upon, but with the large area there adapted to cotton culture, the rapidity with which the acreage has been increased, and the fact that a good quality is produced, the probabilities are that it will become a very large producer in the near future, and a formidable competitor of the South.

But India, while its output will figure more or less, is not so much to be feared, because it can't compete with the South on a large scale. The production there is so much less per acre than in the South, that even with the cheaper labor the India cotton growers could not compete with our growers. Statistics since 1896 show that India had an average acreage of 13,788,262 acres, the average production of which per year was 982,212 500-pound bales, an average of 36 pounds to the acre. The average acreage of the South for the same period was 23,632,937 acres, the average production of which per year was 9,443,455 500-pound bales, or 196 pounds to the acre, nearly 5½ times as much as India produced. With this showing competition on a large scale is simply out of the question and the South has little to fear from India.

"Go West,

Ranch it and rough it and you'll soon get rid of that weak chest and that hacking cough." That is what the doctor said to a young married man with a wife and child to care for and a modest salary to support them on. He couldn't go West. Love and duty tied him to his desk in the city.

People don't have to travel to cure coughs or strengthen weak lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs, weakness, emaciation and other forms of disease which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate fatally in consumption.

"I will write you what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has done for me," says George H. Belcher, Esq., of Dorton, Pike County, Ky. "Thirteen years ago I was wounded by a ball passing through my lung. I have had a bad cough almost ever since, with shortness of breath, and it was very easy to take cold; the slightest change of weather would cause the cough to be so bad I would have to sit up in bed all night. Could not eat or sleep at times; was all run down; could not work at all. A few months ago I began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Have not used more than two bottles, and now can eat, sleep, and work, and I feel like a new man. I cannot find words to sufficiently recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or tell the good it has done me."

FLORA MACDONALD.

The following reference to Flora MacDonald is clipped from a Scottish paper, The Northern Scot and Moray and Nairn Express, of May 18th:

"On the base of the Flora MacDonald statue on Castle Hill, Inverness, are being cut the necessary inscriptions as approved by the Inverness Town Council and the representatives of the donor. The name Flora MacDonald is being cut out in large capitals on the front of the base, and below it is a handsome bronze shield, bearing the following inscription: 'Fhad's a dh' fhasas flur air machair Mairidh cliu na h-ainnir chaoimh' (So long as flower grows on the field the fame of the gentle lady will last'). The following quotation follows the Gaelic sentence: 'The preserver of Prince Charles Edward Stuart will be mentioned in history, and if courage and fidelity be virtues mentioned with honor.—Johnson.' A similar shield is placed on the side of the base facing the Castle. It has the following: 'Erected by the Town Council of Inverness by direction and at the expense of the late Capt. J. Henderson MacDonald, of Caskieben, Aberdeenshire, and Seventy eighth Highlanders.'"

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— It is rather strange that after one hundred and twenty-five years the United States are told that they have heretofore had an entirely wrong impression of what territories were and how they ought to be taxed. —Atlanta News, Dem.

—— The friends of the anti-canteen movement are not likely to refer to the San Francisco troops' riots in support of their narrow views. The trouble rather indicates conditions due to a misguided crusade carried on by temperance enthusiasts with more of energy than of good judgment which increases drunkenness and promotes disorder in the army.—Philadelphia Telegraph, Rep.

—— The decision of the Cabinet against the necessity of calling an extra session of Congress to deal with the Philippines was doubtless influenced by the consideration that the trade of the United States with the islands is too inconsiderable to effect the protected industries even if the Supreme Court should hold that the collection of tariff dues on imports from that part of our territorial domain is illegal. The duties collected from such imports since the cession of the archipelago amount only to a few hundred thousand dollars, and the suggestion that European cargoes would be sent all around the world and shipped to this country via Manila in order to obtain the advantage of free entry into our ports was too ridiculous to be treated with gravity even by a Protectionist Administration.—Philadelphia Record, Dem.

Layering Strawberries.

After the middle of July strawberry plants that are to be grown in matted rows are allowed to layer, and ordinarily no attention is paid to assisting them, but if the season is very dry and few runners are formed they may be layered by hand. Some growers also find it advisable to layer the plants by hand and thus distribute them so that the ground will be occupied to the best advantage. When the plants are two feet apart, two runners are layered at either side of each original plant, so that they will form a square, with the old plant in the center. The other runners are removed and the plants are allowed to thicken up, and give nearly as good results as can be obtained from hill culture.

The growers who plant so as to work the ground both ways and still wish to grow the plants in matted rows are only able to keep up this practice until about the middle of July and after that work the land in one direction only. In this way the runners are distributed lengthwise of the rows, where they soon become layered. It will generally be best to restrict the width of the row to eight or ten inches.—L. R. Taft, Michigan.

HUNTING THE CHINCHILLA.

South American Indians Use Dynamite to Secure Perfect Skins.

Killing chinchilla with the aid of dynamite is one of the lucrative pastimes of the South American Indians which enrich the commerce of the world very considerably.

High in the mountains the nimble footed chinchilla are caught and killed by half savage Indians. Tact and skill are needed to lure the cautious little animal from its hole in the earth. Originally the Indians used to use cactus prongs, which are long and sharp, to capture them in their holes by impaling them on the end of this natural spear. This punctured the skin and impaired its value. The trappers tried to smoke the chinchilla out by making great fires near the entrance of the burrows, but the smoke, it was found, caused the skin to turn yellow, which seriously depreciated its value. Now the more progressive Indians use dynamite.

After locating the chinchilla they form a network of grass and hardy plants, which is placed around the hill on the side of which the animal digs its holes. A dynamite cartridge with a time fuse attached is then discharged in the center of the net, which frightens the chinchilla so that they leave their holes and scamper wildly to and fro about the space inside the net. The Indians then dash into the arena with clubs and kill them by striking them over the head. This is considered the easiest and best method of killing them, as it does not in any way damage the skins, which vary in value from $3 to $15 each. When it is considered that as many as 100 animals are killed in one sortie of this character, the value of the skins to the Indians, who are shrewd commercial traders, may be imagined.

Some of the tribe own ferrets, which they use to good advantage. They pay as much as $5 for one. The ferrets are taken to the mountain tops and sent through the furrows, chasing the chinchilla out into the open, where they are clubbed to death with celerity by the waiting Indians. The skins are removed immediately and placed on shrubs to dry. The evening meal of the trappers often consists of the bodies of the slain rodents, the meat of which is white and tender. The hearts of the latter are given to the ferrets.

A great part of the trapping is done at night, the chinchilla seldom being visible in the daytime. The nights are cool and clear, and, there being but little vegetation at the height where the chinchilla are caught, the mountains are for a long period each month illuminated by the rays of the moon, enabling the Indians to move about with great agility for their prey. The chinchilla lives principally on herbs and often when it comes out to feed is trapped by the Indians.

Four times a year the tribes descend into the semicivilized villages at the base of the mountains with their skins. There they are met by the various agents of the European fur houses. One American house has its representative there too. The occasion of the Indians' arrival is usually made a religious festival.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Gilbert—I believe in a man being the master of the house. He should have the say in everything.

Mason—How about the naming of that baby of yours?

Gilbert—My wife gave way to me in a very proper and wifely manner. She said she didn't care what name I gave him. You know I felt, after the hearty manner in which she deferred to me, I ought to yield a single point merely out of appreciation of her humility.—Boston Transcript.

NEW YORK, June 7.—No mercy was shown the shorts at the hands of the triumphant bull faction in to-day's cotton market here, in the South and in Liverpool. In all three, markets were radically higher on very active general buying led by the unlucky bear interests who saw no relief in sight even at prevailing high prices. The local market opened firm and up five to eight points on vigorous general demand, in which Liverpool, Southern, Western and local interests figured conspicuously. The public bought the distant months on bad weather and crop reports, spinners bought Summer positions and October on better trade developments at the mills and owing to greatly depleted stocks of raw cotton in storehouses; the West sold July cotton held for weeks and covered shorts in August. Room traders hastened to cover, the South refused to sell its spot cotton and even bought near months on the hope of a corner helping them to a profit. The foreign contingent feared a possible corner of July and August in all speculative markets and also turned to cover. This wave of buying carried prices to a level, nine to eleven points over last night's close in the early session while in the afternoon a resumption of buying for all accounts increased the net rise for the day to a matter of eleven to sixteen points. August shorts were very much disturbed by rumors that the July deal was to be merged into a July-August squeeze and by evidences of returning bull confidence among old time investors. There was scarcely a lull in the activity all day. The chief incentive to a higher market here was the early cable news. This showed a sheer rise of five to six points in futures and 3-32d in spot in Liverpool, whereas no change had been expected. Bull cables were accompanied by liberal buying orders which helped materially to sweep away bear confidence and to stimulate healthy new buying. While some of this advance abroad was lost, the market there failed to show real signs of a positive re action and closed well up at the top with sentiment still very bullish. The market here was finally steady with prices net ten to thirteen points higher, having reacted partially under profit taking.

THE LATEST AS TO NERVES AND STRENGTH

It is not muscle so much as the nerves back of muscle which show one's strength and power of endurance. And the study with able physicians of to-day is how to keep the nerves in perfect health and fitted for the strain of everyday living. Headache of every type, nerve weakness, dyspepsia, sleeplessness, languor, restlessness, nervous dyspepsia, muscular weakness, brain weariness, poor circulation,—a thousand different unpleasant feelings and symptoms are due to nerve waste and nerve weakness,—especially in women and children. But how can all this be prevented, one will ask? How can my broken-down constitution be repaired, and nerve strength and full, robust health be secured. Just two points to remember: Determine that you will grow strong in nerves and health, and decide to use at once that most famous nerve cure, COCELLIN. It is delicious in taste, quick in action and makes the wearied nerves bright with renewed strength and every function the stronger and faculty the brighter by its use. Druggists sell it.

CLOTHING THE BOYS.

HOW TO MAKE VACATION SUITS FOR LITTLE MEN.

Some of the Intricacies of Blouse and Knickerbocker Making Explained—Materials Which Wear Well.

[Copyright, 1901, by American Press Association.]

The Russian blouse is the prevailing style for all the small boys and some who are quite large. For those under 7 this is the most fashionable suit.

The Russian blouse suit consists of knickerbockers, or pantaloons, made wide and gathered at the bottoms and worn so that they cover the knees. The blouse comes down nearly to the knees. The materials most suitable for this special suit for spring are dark cheviot, serge, armure and in fact almost any woolen stuff in solid color, for, while kilt suits in plaid are pretty and suitable, a blouse suit of this shape is not adapted to plaid. For warmer days galatea, linen, pique, seersucker and denim are all suitable and found ready made.

It should not be forgotten that small girls can wear the Russian blouse as well as the boys; but, except for rough outing wear, the knickerbockers give place to the skirts. There are two ways of making the blouse—one having the back plain and the front simply gathered in the center at the neck and the opening at one side or the other. This opening is also made diagonally at the will of the maker, and sometimes the garment opens from top to bottom diagonally. This is most often done in the coat, for the Russian coat is a favorite and is made of everything one can imagine, the dark green velutina being one of the richest. Leather belts with big harness buckles fasten them.

Some have wide sailor collars added, but they do not belong on a Russian blouse. To make one for a child of, say, 6 it requires three yards of goods 36 inches wide. The back is cut in one piece and is laid in two box plaits from the shoulder to the belt. The lower part is left open. The front is also cut from one width of the goods and has the neck and arm sizes hollowed out to the right shape, and then the opening is cut down, and a piece is set on and turned over and stitched, like the illustration. The coat may open at the right or left, as one may wish. The seams are then sewed up and the garment hemmed. The surplus is gathered in the front of the neck and the two box plaits stitched in the back. The shoulders are then sewed together and the sleeves set in. The sleeves are always one seam bishop shape, with straight band. The neck may be finished with a plain band or with a sailor collar and shield. There is always a belt of some kind, and this must hang rather low in front. Dark red or blue pique trimmed with white linen makes a pretty suit. With this should go a white leather belt.

There is a neat style of Norfolk jacket, and with this knickerbockers are worn, and bicycle suits have the loose trousers gathered at the knees. Golf pants are loose at the thighs and snug at the knees, where they buckle. For all of these tan khaki, crash in several shades of brown and linen are used.

But these are not so popular among the boys as the regular sailor suit. This consists, as we know, of two pieces, pants and blouse. The sailor blouse is loose and long, and the surplus length is gathered up with an elastic or, better still, tapes which can be tied and so do not come loose. One width of double width stuff cuts a blouse, and all that is necessary is to shape the shoulders and hem the fronts and bottom. When this is done, there can be a binding put at the neck and perhaps a row or two of braid as a finish. Where a sailor collar and shield are to be worn the buttons need not show or the front need not be cut all the way down. A pocket belongs at the left side and is set on. Shields and wide collars can be purchased ready made and are transferable, but the wise mother will get a pattern and make one of linen and put a sailor knot or ribbon at the point, and that collar can be washed and worn indefinitely. Ready made the very cheapest of these costs $1.50. It is nothing to make them. White duck or pique, with a red or blue binding and knot, makes the neatest and the most serviceable ones.

In making the small trousers amateurs should be sure that the fronts and backs do not get mixed. It is difficult to get the pockets in right and the fly at the front. No amount of explanation can teach this, but a pair of pants to look at is a help. Put the pockets in, then sew the fly and buttonhole piece on, then sew up the outside of the legs and finally the back parts and press each seam as you go, and then sew the two insides of the legs all in one seam. Hem and sew on the stays and buttons. OLIVE HARPER.

French Bakers.

Bakers in France are subject to restrictions and regulations undreamed of in England. In the fortified towns along the frontier they are bound by law to have a certain stock of flour always on hand in case of emergencies. The bakery not only has to be kept clean, but the baker has to deposit with the local authorities a certain sum of money as a surety for the proper conduct of his business.

The law also looks after his weights and measures, which circumstance places him in the same position as the British baker, but in addition the law regulates the price at which bread can be sold.

Napoleon III ordered on one occasion that a loaf about equal to our quartern should be sold for not more than sixpence, and this at a time when we were paying eightpence and ninepence. —London Tit-Bits.

Family Pride.

"I suppose you take a great deal of pride in your business."

"No," anwered Mr. Cumrox, "I used to take pride in my business, but ma and the girls don't approve of it. The only thing we take pride in now is my daughter's husband's pedigree."—Washington Star.

Women Should Seek Relief.

The great proportion of women who suffer never make a serious effort to benefit themselves. The most of them go on paying no attention to their little menstrual disorders, believing they will eventually wear off. But menstrual troubles don't wear off. They grow worse and worse every day. At the period of menstruation a woman is peculiarly susceptible to cold and other external influences and it is also the most favorable time for the development of hidden disease germs which may be lurking in the system. Any physician knows that disordered menstruation, falling of the womb and leucorrhoea are blighting lives in almost every home. No woman should neglect herself a moment after she sees indications of female disease. Almost instant relief can be secured by the use of

WINE OF CARDUI

It will relieve you right in your own home. Will you accept the testimony of Mrs. Beigler and thousands of other women and really seek relief today? All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

100 Chicago Street, Fort Wayne, Ind., March 27, 1900.

Your Wine of Cardui has done a world of good for me. I have used five bottles of the Wine and one package of Thedford's Black-Draught. And since I have started to use it I will not be without it in the house. It helped my sister in Toledo, who did not menstruate as she ought. She was sixteen years of age and nothing helped her. I was in a very bad state myself before I used your medicines, but I found relief in three days. And now I feel like a new woman and do all my housework and washing, which I could not do before I took the Wine of Cardui. I would be very glad to write any poor woman and tell her how I suffered before I used Wine of Cardui. Mrs. C. P. BEIGLER.

A Sympathetic Memory.

In a western Massachusetts town lives a young woman who is blessed with both discrimination and tact.

The first of these admirable qualities she has displayed by her two marriages. Her first husband was a minister, a most delightful man. He died, and after a lapse of five or six years she was united to his only brother, who was a successful lawyer in New York.

On her library desk stands a picture of the first partner of her joys and sorrows, and one day a curious caller asked whom the photograph represented.

"That," said the hostess, with evident emotion, "is a picture of my husband's brother, who died eight years ago and who was very dear to us both."—Youth's Companion.

Generous.

"What's your fare?" asked old Flintskin of his cabby the other day and was met with the stereotyped reply:

"Well, sir, I will leave that to you."

"Thank you; you're very kind," said old F., buttoning up his pockets and walking off. "You're the first person who ever left me anything yet."—London Fun.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." None should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at R. R. BELLAMY'S Drug Store. †

The Morning Star.

BY WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

CARPETBAGGERS IN THE "APPURTENANCES."

A Manila dispatch published several days ago stated that there was much murmuring about the discrimination against natives in the appointment of judges, the murmurings going even to the extent of threatening another revolution if the discrimination did not cease. The Philippines as well as Porto Rico are, according to the recent decision of the Supreme Court, "appurtenances," but not a part of the United States.

This decision, which was elicited by a question of customs duties and the right to collect duties on goods imported from Porto Rico, was more far-reaching than was anticipated and settled the hash for some of the territory that wasn't in question at all, for acting on the cue given out by Justice White, the expansionists will insist on treating all these new acquisitions as "appurtenances," and keeping them in the condition of "appurtenances." Porto Rico, the Philippines, the Caroline islands, the Sulu group, Hawaii and the Danish West Indies, (if we buy them) will all find themselves in the category of "appurtenances," to be governed by the Congress of the United States according to its own sweet will, without any restriction of law further than it may deign to keep within what it may consider the spirit of the constitution. The natural result of this will be carpetbag governments for those "appurtenances," and they won't like that a bit better than the governments they kicked against and some of them not so well.

The murmuring reported from Manila was done by the natives, but Hawaii is in it, too, and there there is a hot war on between the original stock of carpetbaggers and the later imports, which must be interesting to the unsophisticated natives who don't know much about such things. Each of the factions has an organ and the organs are firing away and going for the other side without measuring the American vernacular. The organ of the original carpetbagger declares that the new issue of imports is a sort of horseleach who goes to the islands to suck all he can out of the people without giving them anything in return but flattery and humbuggery. In the language of the distinguished carpetbagger of Texas, Mr. Flannagan, they ask themselves the question "what in h—ll are we here for" and proceed accordingly to demonstrate what they are there for.

The organ of the latest issue of carpetbaggers, which flies the roaring and caloric name of Volcano declares that the new issue are no more carpetbaggers than the old issue were who are railing and kicking because they can't monopolize all the soft snaps in the islands and lord it over the docile natives. It is a question of spoils with both and as far as outsiders are concerned it dosen't matter which is on top and and perhaps it dosen't matter to the native either, for he would, in all probability, be bled by either, the only difference being that the old issue may stick, be permanent, and their plunder remain in the islands while the new issue being birds prey and passage will linger while it pays and then migrate with the plunder, as most of them did in the reconstruction carpetbag era in the South.

The case of Hawaii is peculiar and somewhat different from that of the other "appurtenances." The original stock of American adventurers, with the aid and comfort and moral encouragement of the Republican administration at Washington, snatched the ebony queen from her throne and sent her into retirement on her farm outside of Honolulu and established a so-called "Republic," whose government was some time after recognized by the administration at Washington. While it was run as a Republic by the little oligarchy of Americans, they had the game and the spoils all in their own hands, but for some reason they concluded they wanted to be annexed, and they called a convention, formed a constitution eliminating the bulk of the natives from participation in the government and were annexed, by virtue of which annexation the islands became "appurtenances" of the United States, not to be ruled by the oligarchy but by new comers who drifted thither after annexation. That's where the bother comes in to the fellows who overthrew the "monarchy" and established the "republic." Then they had everything in their own hands, but now they have a new element to cope with, several times more assertive and pugnacious than the brown natives, who don't take much stock in political scrimmaging since the sable queen has been retired from business.

The Dole adherents who did the revolution act took the unsuspecting queen by surprise and ejected her without the formality of sending a constable with papers, miscalculated, for they favored and worked for annexation on the assumption that Hawaii would be organized into a Territory, with a big T, and in due time be admitted as a State, when there would be a couple Senatorships for some of the patriots, and some other fat jobs. They had no idea that they would become a mere "appurtenance," and remain in that condition indefinitely, unless the native race should peg out or emigrate and the vacated places be taken by Americans and other Anglo Saxons, who, according to the ideas of the expansionist, supported by the dictum of Justice White, may be competent for the task of self-government according to Anglo Saxon principles.

This is rough on the schemers who established the Republic of Hawaii to now find their Republic a mere appurtenance of the United States, and their grip on the spoils contested by new coming carpet baggers, but it is also rough on all the "appurtenances," for c. b. government isn't good any way you take it.

A FOOL IN BLACK

There is a negro paper in Mobile, Alabama, owned and published by two preachers, which doesn't like the appeal made by Booker T. Washington to the Constitutional Convention. The Mobile paper doesn't think there ought to be any appeals in behalf of the negroes, but that they should insist on their "rights" and ask no favors. If the negroes are "treated right" it says they will help to make the South bloom and prosper and if they are not they will do something else. Here is the way it serves notice:

"If treated wrong, he will seek what opportunity he can to weaken it so that he can destroy this system of semi-barbaric slavery. The country cannot live in peace and happiness with one law for one class and another for another class. The negro is not now satisfied and the race only submits because it is powerless to help itself. The negro submits now, but that submission is by force and with discontent, a cancerous sore, which will come to the surface in an eruption in a few years."

Just what it means by "treated wrong" we do not know, but we suppose it means that the privilege of the negro to vote should not be restricted, that the way to the ballot box should be as open to him as to the white man, that he ought to have an equal showing at the official plum tree, etc., etc. Anything less than this would doubtless, in the estimation of that paper, be "treating the negro wrong."

But if the negroes of Alabama should take these two clerical editors as guides in preference to such counsellors as Booker T. Washington and other negroes who follow in his line they would hurt themselves much more than they would the white men of their State, who attach no importance whatever to such vaporing as this Mobile paper indulges in. There has been talk of that kind in all the States where restricted suffrage has been discussed, but even the negroes in the States where it has been adopted have realized the fact that it has been a benefit to them and that they are better off since than they were before suffrage was restricted.

INDIAN COTTON.

A statement was published some time ago to the effect that the cotton manufacturers in Japan were importing largely of India cotton as a substitute for the American cotton which they had been buying. They mix this India cotton with American cotton, which helps it and gives it a better standing in the market, but at the same time the India cotton enables the manufacturer to put the goods on the market somewhat cheaper than if he worked all American cotton. The fact that Russian mills are now getting most of their cotton from Southern Siberia, and the Japanese importing largely from India makes the situation interesting to both the Southern mill man and cotton grower, and the prospective capacity of both of these fields, also a matter of interest.

The industry is still too young in Southern Siberia to furnish basis to calculate upon, but with the large area there adapted to cotton culture, the rapidity with which the acreage has been increased, and the fact that a good quality is produced, the probabilities are that it will become a very large producer in the near future, and a formidable competitor of the South.

But India, while its output will figure more or less, is not so much to be feared, because it can't compete with the South on a large scale. The production there is so much less per acre than in the South, that even with the cheaper labor the India cotton growers could not compete with our growers. Statistics since 1896 show that India had an average acreage of 13,788,262 acres, the average production of which per year was 982,212 500-pound bales, an average of 36 pounds to the acre. The average acreage of the South for the same period was 23,632,937 acres, the average production of which per year was 9,443,455 500-pound bales, or 196 pounds to the acre, nearly 5½ times as much as India produced. With this showing competition on a large scale is simply out of the question and the South has little to fear from India.

"Go West,

Ranch it and rough it and you'll soon get rid of that weak chest and that hacking cough." That is what the doctor said to a young married man with a wife and child to care for and a modest salary to support them on. He couldn't go West. Love and duty tied him to his desk in the city.

People don't have to travel to cure coughs or strengthen weak lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs, weakness, emaciation and other forms of disease which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate fatally in consumption.

"I will write you what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has done for me," says George H. Belcher, Esq., of Dorton, Pike County, Ky. "Thirteen years ago I was wounded by a ball passing through my lung. I have had a bad cough almost ever since, with shortness of breath, and it was very easy to take cold; the slightest change of weather would cause the cough to be so bad I would have to sit up in bed all night. Could not eat or sleep at times; was all run down; could not work at all. A few months ago I began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Have not used more than two bottles, and now can eat, sleep, and work, and I feel like a new man. I cannot find words to sufficiently recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or tell the good it has done me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser in paper covers is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. The book has 1008 pages and over 700 illustrations. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FLORA MACDONALD.

The following reference to Flora MacDonald is clipped from a Scottish paper, The Northern Scot and Moray and Nairn Express, of May 18th:

"On the base of the Flora MacDonald statue on Castle Hill, Inverness, are being cut the necessary inscriptions as approved by the Inverness Town Council and the representatives of the donor. The name Flora MacDonald is being cut out in large capitals on the front of the base, and below it is a handsome bronze shield, bearing the following inscription: 'Fhad's a dh' fhasas flur air machair Mairidh cliu na h-ainnir chaoimh' (So long as flower grows on the field the fame of the gentle lady will last'). The following quotation follows the Gaelic sentence: 'The preserver of Prince Charles Edward Stuart will be mentioned in history, and if courage and fidelity be virtues mentioned with honor.—Johnson.' A similar shield is placed on the side of the base facing the Castle. It has the following: 'Erected by the Town Council of Inverness by direction and at the expense of the late Capt. J. Henderson MacDonald, of Caskieben, Aberdeenshire, and Seventy eighth Highlanders.'"

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— It is rather strange that after one hundred and twenty-five years the United States are told that they have heretofore had an entirely wrong impression of what territories were and how they ought to be taxed. —Atlanta News, Dem.

—— The friends of the anti-canteen movement are not likely to refer to the San Francisco troops' riots in support of their narrow views. The trouble rather indicates conditions due to a misguided crusade carried on by temperance enthusiasts with more of energy than of good judgment which increases drunkenness and promotes disorder in the army.—Philadelphia Telegraph, Rep.

—— The decision of the Cabinet against the necessity of calling an extra session of Congress to deal with the Philippines was doubtless influenced by the consideration that the trade of the United States with the islands is too inconsiderable to effect the protected industries even if the Supreme Court should hold that the collection of tariff dues on imports from that part of our territorial domain is illegal. The duties collected from such imports since the cession of the archipelago amount only to a few hundred thousand dollars, and the suggestion that European cargoes would be sent all around the world and shipped to this country via Manila in order to obtain the advantage of free entry into our ports was too ridiculous to be treated with gravity even by a Protectionist Administration.—Philadelphia Record, Dem.

They were first seen by a colored girl, in Mr. W. F. Crump's oat patch. Afterwards quite a number of colored men and women caught "glimpse" of the wild things as they darted through the woods.

Layering Strawberries.

After the middle of July strawberry plants that are to be grown in matted rows are allowed to layer, and ordinarily no attention is paid to assisting them, but if the season is very dry and few runners are formed they may be layered by hand. Some growers also find it advisable to layer the plants by hand and thus distribute them so that the ground will be occupied to the best advantage. When the plants are two feet apart, two runners are layered at either side of each original plant, so that they will form a square, with the old plant in the center. The other runners are removed and the plants are allowed to thicken up, and give nearly as good results as can be obtained from hill culture.

The growers who plant so as to work the ground both ways and still wish to grow the plants in matted rows are only able to keep up this practice until about the middle of July and after that work the land in one direction only. In this way the runners are distributed lengthwise of the rows, where they soon become layered. It will generally be best to restrict the width of the row to eight or ten inches.—L. R. Taft, Michigan.

HUNTING THE CHINCHILLA.

South American Indians Use Dynamite to Secure Perfect Skins.

Killing chinchilla with the aid of dynamite is one of the lucrative pastimes of the South American Indians which enrich the commerce of the world very considerably.

High in the mountains the nimble footed chinchilla are caught and killed by half savage Indians. Tact and skill are needed to lure the cautious little animal from its hole in the earth. Originally the Indians used to use cactus prongs, which are long and sharp, to capture them in their holes by impaling them on the end of this natural spear. This punctured the skin and impaired its value. The trappers tried to smoke the chinchilla out by making great fires near the entrance of the burrows, but the smoke, it was found, caused the skin to turn yellow, which seriously depreciated its value. Now the more progressive Indians use dynamite.

After locating the chinchilla they form a network of grass and hardy plants, which is placed around the hill on the side of which the animal digs its holes. A dynamite cartridge with a time fuse attached is then discharged in the center of the net, which frightens the chinchilla so that they leave their holes and scamper wildly to and fro about the space inside the net. The Indians then dash into the arena with clubs and kill them by striking them over the head. This is considered the easiest and best method of killing them, as it does not in any way damage the skins, which vary in value from $3 to $15 each. When it is considered that as many as 100 animals are killed in one sortie of this character, the value of the skins to the Indians, who are shrewd commercial traders, may be imagined.

Some of the tribe own ferrets, which they use to good advantage. They pay as much as $5 for one. The ferrets are taken to the mountain tops and sent through the furrows, chasing the chinchilla out into the open, where they are clubbed to death with celerity by the waiting Indians. The skins are removed immediately and placed on shrubs to dry. The evening meal of the trappers often consists of the bodies of the slain rodents, the meat of which is white and tender. The hearts of the latter are given to the ferrets.

A great part of the trapping is done at night, the chinchilla seldom being visible in the daytime. The nights are cool and clear, and, there being but little vegetation at the height where the chinchilla are caught, the mountains are for a long period each month illuminated by the rays of the moon, enabling the Indians to move about with great agility for their prey. The chinchilla lives principally on herbs and often when it comes out to feed is trapped by the Indians.

Four times a year the tribes descend into the semicivilized villages at the base of the mountains with their skins. There they are met by the various agents of the European fur houses. One American house has its representative there too. The occasion of the Indians' arrival is usually made a religious festival.—Chicago Times-Herald.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, June 7.—No mercy was shown the shorts at the hands of the triumphant bull faction in to-day's cotton market here, in the South and in Liverpool. In all three, markets were radically higher on very active general buying led by the unlucky bear interests who saw no relief in sight even at prevailing high prices The local market opened firm and up five to eight points on vigorous general demand, in which Liverpool, Southern, Western and local interests figured conspicuously. The public bought the distant months on bad weather and crop reports, spinners bought Summer positions and October on better trade developments at the mills and owing to greatly depleted stocks of raw cotton in storehouses; the West sold July cotton held for weeks and covered shorts in August. Room traders hastened to cover, the South refused to sell its spot cotton and even bought near months on the hope of a corner helping them to a profit. The foreign contingent feared a possible corner of July and August in all speculative markets and also turned to cover. This wave of buying carried prices to a level, nine to eleven points over last night's close in the early session while in the afternoon a resumption of buying for all accounts increased the net rise for the day to a matter of eleven to sixteen points. August shorts were very much disturbed by rumors that the July deal was to be merged into a July-August squeeze and by evidences of returning bull confidence among old time investors. There was scarcely a lull in the activity all day. The chief incentive to a higher market here was the early cable news. This showed a sheer rise of five to six points in futures and 3-32d in spot in Liverpool, whereas no change had been expected. Bull cables were accompanied by liberal buying orders which helped materially to sweep away bear confidence and to stimulate healthy new buying. While some of this advance abroad was lost, the market there failed to show real signs of a positive reaction and closed well up at the top with sentiment still very bullish. The market here was finally steady with prices net ten to thirteen points higher, having reacted partially under profit taking.

THE LATEST AS TO NERVES AND STRENGTH

It is not muscle so much as the nerves back of muscle which show one's strength and power of endurance. And the study with able physicians of to-day is how to keep the nerves in perfect health and fitted for the strain of everyday living. Headache of every type, nervousness, dyspepsia, sleeplessness, languor, restlessness, nervous dyspepsia, muscular weakness, brain weariness, poor circulation,—a thousand different unpleasant feelings and symptoms are due to nerve waste and nerve weakness,—especially in women and children. But how can all this be prevented, one will ask? How can my broken-down constitution be repaired, and nerve strength and full, robust health be secured. Just two points to remember: Determine that you will grow strong in nerves and health, and decide to use at once that most famous nerve cure, COCELLIN. It is delicious in taste, quick in action and makes the wearied nerves tingle with renewed strength and every function the stronger and faculty the brighter by its use. Druggists sell it.

CLOTHING THE BOYS.

HOW TO MAKE VACATION SUITS FOR LITTLE MEN.

Some of the Intricacies of Blouse and Knickerbocker Making Explained—Materials Which Wear Well.

[Copyright, 1901, by American Press Association.]

The Russian blouse is the prevailing style for all the small boys and some who are quite large. For those under 7 this is the most fashionable suit.

The Russian blouse suit consists of knickerbockers, or pantaloons, made wide and gathered at the bottoms and worn so that they cover the knees. The blouse comes down nearly to the knees. The materials most suitable for this special suit for spring are dark cheviot, serge, armure and in fact almost any woolen stuff in solid color, for, while kilt suits in plaid are pretty and suitable, a blouse suit of this shape is not adapted to plaid. For warmer days galatea, linen, pique, seersucker and denim are all suitable and found ready made.

It should not be forgotten that small girls can wear the Russian blouse as well as the boys; but, except for rough outing wear, the knickerbockers give place to the skirts. There are two ways of making the blouse—one having the back plain and the front simply gathered in the center at the neck and the opening at one side or the other. This opening is also made diagonally at the will of the maker, and sometimes the garment opens from top to bottom diagonally. This is most often done in the coat, for the Russian coat is a favorite and is made of everything one can imagine, the dark green velutina being one of the richest. Leather belts with big harness buckles fasten them.

Some have wide sailor collars added, but they do not belong on a Russian blouse. To make one for a child of, say, 6 it requires three yards of goods 36 inches wide. The back is cut in one piece and is laid in two box plaits from the shoulder to the belt. The lower part is left open. The front is also cut from one width of the goods and has the neck and arm sizes hollowed out to the right shape, and then the opening is cut down, and a piece is set on and turned over and stitched, like the illustration. The coat may open at the right or left, as one may wish. The seams are then sewed up and the garment hemmed. The surplus is gathered in the front of the neck and the two box plaits stitched in the back. The shoulders are then sewed together and the sleeves set in. The sleeves are always one seam bishop shape, with straight band. The neck may be finished with a plain band or with a sailor collar and shield. There is always a belt of some kind, and this must hang rather low in front. Dark red or blue pique trimmed with white linen makes a pretty suit. With this should go a white leather belt.

There is a neat style of Norfolk jacket, and with this knickerbockers are worn, and bicycle suits have the loose trousers gathered at the knees. Golf pants are loose at the thighs and snug at the knees, where they buckle. For all of these tan khaki, crash in several shades of brown and linen are used.

But these are not so popular among the boys as the regular sailor suit. This consists, as we know, of two pieces, pants and blouse. The sailor blouse is loose and long, and the surplus length is gathered up with an elastic or, better still, tapes which can be tied and so do not come loose. One width of double width stuff cuts a blouse, and all that is necessary is to shape the shoulders and hem the fronts and bottom. When this is done, there can be a binding put at the neck and perhaps a row or two of braid as a finish. Where a sailor collar and shield are to be worn the buttons need not show or the front need not be cut all the way down. A pocket belongs at the left side and is set on. Shields and wide collars can be purchased ready made and are transferable, but the wise mother will get a pattern and make one of linen and put a sailor knot or ribbon at the point, and that collar can be washed and worn indefinitely. Ready made the very cheapest of these costs $1.50. It is nothing to make them. White duck or pique, with a red or blue binding and knot, makes the neatest and the most serviceable ones.

In making the small trousers amateurs should be sure that the fronts and backs do not get mixed. It is difficult to get the pockets in right and the fly at the front. No amount of explanation can teach this, but a pair of pants to look at is a help. Put the pockets in, then sew the fly and buttonhole piece on, then sew up the outside of the legs and finally the back parts and press each seam as you go, and then sew the two insides of the legs all in one seam. Hem and sew on the stays and buttons. OLIVE HARPER.

French Bakers.

Bakers in France are subject to restrictions and regulations undreamed of in England. In the fortified towns along the frontier they are bound by law to have a certain stock of flour always on hand in case of emergencies. The bakery not only has to be kept clean, but the baker has to deposit with the local authorities a certain sum of money as a surety for the proper conduct of his business.

The law also looks after his weights and measures, which circumstance places him in the same position as the British baker, but in addition the law regulates the price at which bread can be sold.

Napoleon III ordered on one occasion that a loaf about equal to our quartern should be sold for not more than sixpence, and this at a time when we were paying eightpence and ninepence. —London Tit-Bits.

Family Pride.

"I suppose you take a great deal of pride in your business."

"No," answered Mr. Cumrox. "I used to take pride in my business, but ma and the girls don't approve of it. The only thing we take pride in now is my daughter's husband's pedigree."—Washington Star.

Rogues are always found out in some way. Whoever is a wolf will act as a wolf; that is the most certain of all things.—Fontaine.

Women Should Seek Relief.

The great proportion of women who suffer never make a serious effort to benefit themselves. The most of them go on paying no attention to their little menstrual disorders, believing they will eventually wear off. But menstrual troubles don't wear off. They grow worse and worse every day. At the period of menstruation a woman is peculiarly susceptible to cold and other external influences and it is also the most favorable time for the development of hidden disease germs which may be lurking in the system. Any physician knows that disordered menstruation, falling of the womb and leucorrhoea are blighting lives in almost every home. No woman should neglect herself a moment after she sees indications of female disease. Almost instant relief can be secured by the use of

It will relieve you right in your own home. Will you accept the testimony of Mrs. Beigler and thousands of other women and really seek relief today? All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

100 Chicago Street, Fort Wayne, Ind., March 27, 1900.

Your Wine of Cardui has done a world of good for me. I have used five bottles of the Wine and one package of Thedford's Black-Draught. And since I have started to use it I will not be without it in the house. It helped my sister in Toledo, who did not menstruate as she ought. She was sixteen years of age and nothing helped her. I was in a very bad state myself before I used your medicines, but I found relief in three days. And now I feel like a new woman and do all my housework and washing, which I could not do before I took the Wine of Cardui. I would be very glad to write any poor woman and tell her how I suffered before I used Wine of Cardui. Mrs. C. P. BEIGLER.

A Sympathetic Memory.

In a western Massachusetts town lives a young woman who is blessed with both discrimination and tact.

The first of these admirable qualities she has displayed by her two marriages. Her first husband was a minister, a most delightful man. He died, and after a lapse of five or six years she was united to his only brother, who was a successful lawyer in New York.

On her library desk stands a picture of the first partner of her joys and sorrows, and one day a curious caller asked whom the photograph represented.

"That," said the hostess, with evident emotion, "is a picture of my husband's brother, who died eight years ago and who was very dear to us both."—Youth's Companion.

Generous.

"What's your fare?" asked old Flintskin of his cabby the other day and was met with the stereotyped reply:

"Well, sir, I will leave that to you."

"Thank you; you're very kind," said old F., buttoning up his pockets and walking off. "You're the first person who ever left me anything yet."—London Fun.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." None should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at R. R. BELLAMY'S Drug Store. †

INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

Uniform Classification of Freight Urged by Railroad Commissioners.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—At the convention of the railroad commissioners, B. C. Wilborn, of North Carolina, read the report from the committee on uniform classification of freight. The report suggests that Congress be asked to empower the Insterstate Commerce Commission to establish a uniform classification of freight in interstate business. The hope of the committee is that such a plan of the uniform freight classification might prove successful in interstate business and that then the States would be willing to put the same classification in force in State business, thereby securing a uniform classification throughout the country.

ADMINISTRATION IS DETERMINED.

Cubans Must Accept the Platt Amendment Without Any Qualification.

OR THERE WILL BE NO CHANGE

The Status of Cuba Will Remain as it is Senator Platt's Letter in Relation to the Intervention Clause—Philippine Situation Discussed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The cabinet was in session over two hours to-day discussing the Cuban and Philippine situations. A communication has been received from Governor General Wood regarding the prospect for the unconditional acceptance of the Platt amendment, but its contents are not made public. It can be stated, however, that there is hopeful feeling in administration circles that after the first soreness wears off the convention will see the wisdom of adopting the terms of the amendment. The answer to General Wood is to be sent and the language of that communication was under discussion to-day. Meantime the existing status in Cuba is to be maintained. No action looking to the calling of another convention is in contemplation if the present convention should decline to accede to our terms.

While no new proposition has yet been submitted, it is probable that the convention will not accept the Platt amendment outright until another proposition has been made to this government. The administration is fully determined that the Cubans must accept the Platt amendment without qualification before there can be any change in the status of Cuba.

Senator Platt's View.

During the conference between Secretary Root and the Cuban commission the Secretary wrote a letter to Senator Platt of Connecticut, who introduced the Platt amendment, asking for his views relative to intervention as mentioned in the third clause of the amendment. Senator Platt replied and his letter was furnished the commission confidentially by the Secretary of War and was incorporated into and made a part of the acceptance of the Platt amendment by the constitutional convention.

The letter, however, appeared in a Havana paper and to-day was made public by the War Department. Its text is as follows:

"I am in receipt of your letter of this date, in which you say that the members of the commission of the Cuban Constitutional Convention feared that the provisions relative to intervention made in the third clause of the amendment, which has come to bear my name, may have the effect and in reality establish a protectorate or suzerainty by the United States, and you request that I express my views of the question raised.

"In reply, I beg to state that the amendment was carefully prepared with the object of avoiding any possible idea that by the acceptance thereof the constitutional convention would thereby establish a protectorate or suzerainty, or in any manner whatsoever compromise the independence or sovereignty of Cuba; and, speaking for myself, it seems impossible that such an interpretation can be given to the clause. I believe that the amendment should be considered as a whole and it ought to be clear on reading it that its well defined purpose is to secure and safeguard Cuban independence, and set forth at once a clear idea of the friendly disposition of the United States towards the Cuban people and the express intention on their part to aid them, if necessary, in the maintenance of said independence. These are my ideas, and although as you say, I cannot speak for the entire Congress, my belief is that such a purpose was well under stood by that body.

"Very respectfully yours,

"O. H. PLATT."

The Philippine Question.

The programme looking to the establishment of civil government in the Philippines is being formulated in the shape of an order which is to be promulgated shortly. It is said that there is no definite conclusion as to whether the powers of the civil administration will be exercised under the general war powers of the President or the authority vested in him by the Spooner amendment. That, however, is considered a matter of detail. The main points that the civil administration which will be confined largely to the municipalities, will be vested in the head of the Taft commission and such other officials as may be designated, and that they will exercise their functions subject to the direct authority of the Secretary of War to whom all reports will be made. Civil administration under military supervision such as is contemplated, is said not to be anomalous and the civil government in New Mexico and the Southern States during the early stages of the reconstruction period are pointed to as being substantially analogous to what is proposed in the Philippines.

FIRE AT LEXINGTON, KY.

Twenty-three Houses Burned—Total Loss $80,000—Many People Made Homeless—Several Injured.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

LEXINGTON, KY., June 7.—The Oots cooper shop burned this after noon and the fire communicated to other buildings so rapidly that it was feared for some time that the city would be laid in ashes. The fire was beyond control from 2 to 4 P. M. Twenty-three houses, mostly tenement, were totally destroyed with their contents. The loss aproximates eighty thousand dollars. Only about one-third of the property was insured. St. Joseph Hospital was at one time threatened, The citizens rushed in great number to rescue the inmates, but their services were not needed, as the fire department cut off communication of the flames with the hospital. Paris, Georgetown and Versailles were called on for aid, and all held their departments in readiness, but they were not needed.

At 4 o'clock the flames were under control. Many are homeless and were cared for to-night. Three other calls were made for the department from other parts of the city while the fire was raging, but the damage in each instance was trivial. The fire originated in a negro's cottage from a defective flue. A furious wind was blowing and the fire spread with such rapidity that little household property was saved. Several children were seriously but not fatally burned.

A cable was received at the War Department yesterday from General MacArthur, at Manila, announcing that all the volunteers have left the Philippines, en route for the United States.

THREE DESPERATE CONVICTS

Only One Living Survivor to Serve Out a Sentence of Twenty-one Years' Imprisonment

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

TORONTO, ONT., June 7. Of the three men, Fred Lee Rice, Thomas Jones and Frank Rutledge, extradited from Chicago to stand trial for the robbery of a bank at Auroru, Ont., Rice is the only living survivor to serve out the twenty-one years imprisonment to which he was sentenced this morning. Two tragedies have put Jones and Rutledge beyond the reach of the law. Jones died from bullet wounds received in a desperate attempt to escape from the officers who were transferring the prisoners from the court house to the jail last Tuesday and Rutledge committed suicide to-day by jumping from the gallery in the jail to the stone court, thirty feet below.

The first tragedy which startled the citizens of this city was the daring attempt made by the three prisoners to escape form the constables on Tuesday. While the carriage containing Rice, Jones and Rutledge and two constables was proceeding from the court house to the jail an accomplice threw three revolvers through the cab window. The desperadoes evidently were expecting outside help, for they acted promptly. Securing possession of the revolvers the three men opened fire upon the constables. County Constable Boyd was shot and killed. The officers returned the fire and Jones was wounded in the groin and arm. He died at the hospital. A street car conductor, whose car the burglars attempted to board, struck Rutledge over the head with a piece of iron, knocking him senseless. Rice surrendered. To day Rice and Rutledge were sentenced to twenty-one years imprisonment in Kingston penitentiary. Rutledge was being taken with another prisoner in charge of one of the jail guards to dinner about three o'clock. Suddenly he made a dash and springing up the stairway mounted to the gallery running around inside of the jail, thirty feet from the floor. Climbing over the railing Rutledge jumped. He fell head foremost on the stone floor fracturing his skull. He was immediately taken to the hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness.

NAVAL RECLASSIFICATION.

Order Signed by the President—Will be Four Classes—Assignments to Command Afloat.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The President to day signed an order re classifying the vessels of the navy according to their tonnage, to take the place of the old classification, based on the number of guns carried. Under the new system there will be four classes, as follows: First rate, men of-war of 8,000 tons and over; second rate, men of-war of 4,000 tons and under 8,000 tons, and auxiliary vessels of 6,000 tons and over, except colliers, hospital ships and other vessels used for special purposes; third rate, men of war from 1,000 to 4,000 tons, and auxiliary vessels from 1,000 to 6,000 tons, and colliers, refrigerator ships, hospital ships, etc., of 4,000 tons and over; fourth rate, all other vessels.

The order further gives the assignments to command afloat. GEORGIA SHERIFF SHOOTS LYNCHERS

Defending a Convicted Negro Murderer From a Mob of Angry Citizens.

AT CARROLLTON, GEORGIA.

One Man Killed and Two Men Wounded. Mob Had Forced the Jail—Troops Called Out—Negro Taken to Atlanta for Safe Keeping.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CARROLLTON, GA., June 7.—The nerve of an obscure Georgia sheriff, whose name is Joseph Merailll, to day upheld the law of the State and saved the life of a negro from a mob. In protecting the negro, who was saved from the gallows only a few hours before through the efforts of his lawyers, one life was lost and two men were wounded.

The arrival of the State militia averted threatened trouble to-night and at 9 o'clock a special train bearing the negro, (whose crime was the murder of a little white boy whom he found fishing alone) and this guard were speeding towards Atlanta. The man killed in attacking the jail was George Bennett, of Carrollton, and the wounded men are Thomas Smith, also of Carrollton, and an unknown man, presumably a farmer. Thomas S. Word, father of the murdered boy, was not hit.

Williams, the negro, was tried and found guilty of murdering Otis Ward on January 1st, this year, and sentenced to be hanged to day, being refused a new trial by Judge Harrias this morning. His attorneys—Reese, Smith & Boykin—filed a bill of exceptions and carried the case to the Supreme Court.

Mob Attacked the Jail.

A large crowd of people had come to town to witness the hanging, and when it was learned that an appeal had been taken to the Supreme Court, delaying execution, there was much talk, which led soon after to the formation of a mob.

At noon the mob made an assault on the jail. They battered down the outside iron door, despite the warning of the sheriff, and entered the building. They made a demand on the sheriff for the key to the negro's cell, but were refused. With the refusal they began their advance upon the sheriff and the few deputies whom he had been able to summon to his aid. They were told to stop or they would be fired on, but the order was not obeyed.

Three Men Shot Down.

As they advanced down the corridor towards the sheriff, the order was given to fire.

Bennett fell, dying almost instantly.

The unexpected fight of the sheriff and his posse, frightened the mob and they retreated outside the jail. Here they broke and ran and were soon divided into little groups, discussing the event.

Sheriff Merrill at once consulted Judge Harris, of the County Court, and it was decided to call upon Governor Candler for aid. The Governor was communicated with by telephone and said he would send two companies from Atlanta as soon as they could be assembled.

Governor Issues Proclamation.

During the afternoon the mob telephoned their friends in the adjoining towns of Villa Rica and Temple and made an appeal for more men to effect the capture of the negro. This was communicated also to Gov. Candler and the Governor soon wired a proclamation to the people of the county. It was read from the steps of the court house at 4 o'clock by the mayor. The Governor commanded the people to disperse and said the entire military and civil forces of the State would be used to enforce order if necessary. The reading of the proclamation apparently had a good effect, as many people were seen to mount their horses and leave the town.

Much apprehension was felt for the night and the sheriff and city and county officials after a consultation decided to take the prisoner out of the county for safe keeping. The Atlanta militia under command of Major Barker arrived about 6 o'clock and one hour later escorted the negro and sheriff to the train, which was soon speeding southward for Atlanta.

ATLANTA, GA, June 7.—The special train bearing the two companies of State militia which Governor Candler sent to Carrollton to preserve order returned to Atlanta at 11 o'clock, having in charge the negro Williams. The convicted murderer was quickly escorted to the Fulton county jail where he will be kept until the State Supreme Court acts upon the appeal in his case. Sheriff Joseph L. Merrill, who accompanied the party, said the leaders of the mob were Bennett and Mr. Word, and that both of them had assured him early in the day that there would be trouble, but that about noon they found it impossible to restrain their friends. Sheriff Merrill said Mr. Word was the last to leave the jail, and that he was probably the only one who was not armed.
